

Median Income by Gender and Work Experience in North Dakota: 1989 and 1999

Income disparities continue to exist between men and women in the workforce. According to the 2000 Census, the ratio of female-to-male income for year-round full-time workers in North Dakota was 69 cents for every dollar in 1999. Nationally, the ratio is 73 cents for every dollar.

Despite these differences, the real median income of North Dakota women working year-round full-time grew at a faster pace over the past decade than that of men with the same work experience (8.9 percent compared to 3.6 percent, respectively).

Income included in this bulletin is the sum of the amounts reported separately for wages, salary, commissions, bonuses, or tips; self-employment income from own non-farm or farm businesses, including proprietorships and partnerships; interest, dividends, net rental income, royalty income, or income from estates and trusts; Social Security or Railroad Retirement income; Supplemental Security Income (SSI); any public assistance or welfare payments from the state or local welfare office; retirement, survivor, or disability pensions; and any other sources of income received regularly such as Veterans' (VA) payments, unemployment compensation, child support, or alimony. The median represents the middle value in an ordered list of data values. The median divides the total frequency distribution into two equal parts: one-half of the cases fall below the median and one-half of the cases exceed the median.
